WATER's Feminist Conversations in Religion Series Presents

"The Sexual Politics of Meat"

An hour-long teleconference with
Carol J. Adams

Rescheduled to:
Wednesday, March 21, 2012
1 pm-2 pm EDT

Carol J. Adams is a vegan-feminist theorist and writer. Her discussion with WATER will focus on her groundbreaking book, The Sexual Politics of Meat, recently published in its 20th anniversary edition. She explores feminism, vegetarianism, and animal defense to analyze the relationship between patriarchal values and meat eating.

Carol began her career addressing poverty, racism, and sexism as the Executive Director of the Chautauqua County Rural Ministry in Dunkirk, NY. She also served as Chairperson of the Housing Committee of the New York Governor's Commission on Domestic Violence. She now writes and resides in Texas.

Her true love is writing. She is the author/editor of everything from erudite theory to heartfelt prayers, from literature to recipes. Her work focuses on Jane Austen, Frankenstein, sexual and domestic violence, and includes the very popular, provocative "Sexual Politics of Meat Slideshow." Recent publications include Living Among Meat Eaters: The Vegetarian's Survival Handbook and God Listens to Your Care: Prayers For All the Animals of the World.

Join us on Wednesday, March 21, 2012, at 1pm (EDT) to talk with Carol Adams about her important work on the sexual politics of animals, food, and religion. You might even get a good recipe for a delicious vegan treat!

This teleconference, along with notes, will be available on our website soon after it concludes. To download past teleconferences, please visit our website.
